HINDENBURG THROWN BACK

Austro-German Forces Meet With Sudden Check From Muscovites

FALL BACK TWO MILES

Czar's Black Sea Squadron Sinks Forty-eight Coal Ladened Vessels—Plight of the Turks.

Petrograd, July 27.—Von Hindenburg has been halted and thrown back in his attempt to drive the Russians back upon the river Bug defenses north of Warsaw, the war office announced early today in an official statement.

"After a stubborn combat, enemy forces who crossed the Narew south of Rozan and were advancing southward toward the Bug have been repulsed and driven back from Ozh to Olsaki" said the statement.

Olsaki is twelve miles north of the Bug and the movement represents an advance of two miles.

"Southeast of the fort of Pultusk other forces of the enemy who crossed the Narew were repulsed at the river Prout, seven miles north of the Bug. All German attacks on the Narew front in the last twenty-four hours have been unsuccessful."

Outpost fighting is occurring around Ivangorod and Novo Georgievsk, the two forts guarding Warsaw. Energetic fighting continues between the Bug and the Vistula, with the Slavs maintaining their positions.

In the Courtland district, the Germans, evidently re-enforced, are attacking the Russian positions along the Baltic. North of Groubieshow Russian warships steamed close in and aided in repelling a German attack.

Continuing their campaign to sweep the Black Sea free of Turkish shipping and cut off supplies en route for Constantinople, the Russian Black Sea warships have sunk forty small sailing vessels laden with coal in the last forty-eight hours, it was announced today.

Advices received here say that the plight of the Turks is growing desperate.

By wrecking the coal docks on the Asia Minor coast and destroying coal carriers, the Russian fleet has made it necessary to shut down many Turkish factories and the railways and munition works lack coal. Travelers arriving at the Russian frontier say it may be necessary to shut down the Constantionple waterworks.

Petrograd, July 27.—A German air raid on the Vistula bridge at Warsaw failed of its object, though the bombs caused several casualties among civilians. The German advance from the Narew River now is 24 miles, as a crow flies, from the Warsaw-Petrograd railroad, but the Germans still have to fight their way across the Bug River, as well as over 6 miles of virtually roadless country between Narew and Bug.

The fate of Warsaw really depends on the Bug river which is a much more formidable obstacle than is the Narew, the crossing of which by the Germans was facilitated by an islet in mid river, near the confluence of the Orjitz River. There was given out at the War Office today an official report on the progress of hostilities, as follows:

"An official telegram from main headquarters, dated July 26, says that in the western theatre of the war no important events have transpired anywhere on the front.

"In the eastern theatre: North of the River ...iemen the army under General Von Buelow has reached the district of Poswol-Ponivwitz. Wherever the enemy has offered resistance he has been beaten. We captured over 1000 prisoners."

Rome, July 27—It is semi-officially announced that since the war began Italy has taken approximately 20,000 Austrian prisoners, including 500 officers. More than 300 officers have been captured since July 18 in the battle of the Isonzo.

The war office announces operations on the Carso plateau are progressing favorably to the Italians. In Carnia and in the Monte Nero region the Austrians made desperate counter-attacks last night, which were easily repulsed.

SINKING OF THE LEELANAW

Crew Say They Were Well Treated by Men of German Submarine

London, July 27—A German submarine sunk the American steamship Leelanaw off the northwest coast of Scotland, on July 25, two days after the latest note of President Wilson was delivered in Berlin.

The Leelanaw, which was owned by the Harby Steamship Company of New York was enroute from Archangel Russia, to Belfast, Ireland, with a cargo of flax. She had carried a cargo of cotton from the United States to Archangel on the previous trip.

When told that it was flax the German commander immediately declared it contraband and ordered the entire crew of thirty men into the boats. After they put off from the ship the torpedo was fired which sent the Leelanaw to the bottom.

After he had sunk the American steamship, the German submarine commander carried the crew with the string of towed boats near the Orkney Islands, when he set them adrift with orders to make for shore.

They did so, and in their own boats reached Kirkwall, from which place they notified the American consulate at Dundee of the sinking of their vessel.

The sinking of the Leelanaw, as watched by her crew from the shelter of the submarine, was a matter of some detail.

First the underwater craft fired about a dozen shells at the steamer. They failed to send her down, and then the German smashed her side open with a single torpedo.

During their stay with the submarine the Leelanaw men say they were well treated.

Washington, July 27—In sinking the American steamer Leelanaw and her cargo of flax, destined for a port of her enemy, Germany, if the information at present available is reliable is reliable, did not violate the law of civilization and humanity, because the commander of the submarine gave the crew of the American an opportunity to escape before the torpedo was launched. Judging from reports of the occurrence the case of the Leelanaw is almost identical with that of the William P. Frye, which is still the subject of negotiations between Washington and Berlin.

TWO KILLED AT QUARRY

Premature Dynamite Explosion Buries Men Under Rock

Frederick, Md., July 27—Samuel Sprague, Union Bridge, and John Clofani, an Italian, were killed and another Italian badly injured Saturday in an explosion of dynamite at Tidewater Cement Plant near Union Bridge. A number of other workmen made narrow escapes.

A charge of dynamite had been prepared when from some cause an explosion occurred prematurely. Sprague and Clofani were buried beneath tons of earth and rock. The former lived 45 minutes after being rescued and the latter survived four hours. The explosion attracted workmen from every part of the quarry who assisted in the rescue work. Sprague who is survived by a widow and nine children, was buried today.

WIRELESS SAVED SHIPS.

Ordered to Neutral Ports When England Declared War.

London, July 27.—"War has been declared on England. Make as quickly as you can for a neutral port."

This message flashed for a radius of 2,000 miles over the system of German wireless telegraph stations at 5 p. m. on August 4, 1914, saved Germany the bulk of her merchant marine, according to Godfrey Isaacs, managing director of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company, Ltd., at a meeting of the company today.

The saving of the Hamburg-American liner Vaterland alone, he added, more than balanced the $10,000,000 Germany had expended in erecting the situation.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR RIGID PROBE

Federal, State and City Bodies Investigate Horror

RECOVERING BODIES

Probability of Swelling Death List Above 1,000—Nearly 400 Excursionists Still Missing.

Chicago, July 27—Plans for investigations by Federal, State and City official bodies to fix the blame for the capsizing of the steamer Eastland in the Chicago River on Saturday with a loss of hundreds of lives have been completed. A coroner's jury started an inquest today, while Federal departments, headed by Secretary of Commerce Redfield and officers from the city Police Department and the State attorney's office gathered evidence holding formal inquiry in abeyance until the inquest has made progress.

Efforts were continued to-day to remove victims from the wrecked ship and to tabulate the dead, to determine whether the total list would remain around 1,000, as many believed, or creep up to 1,200 or more, as others predicted. Registration of employees by the Western Electric Company showed nearly 400 missing but many of the names of these were included in the list of 826 bodies already indentified. It was said also that probably many did not report at the plant, although safe.

The probability of swelling the list above 1,000 was suggested by the announcement of detectives from the State attorney's office that the tickets taken from passengers boarding the Eastland for the excursion to Michigan City, Ind., numbered 2,550 and did not account for children, musicians and the members of the crew. They estimated the total number of persons aboard the steamer at possibly 2,800 or more, instead of the 2,480 previously announced by officers of the Indiana Transportation Company. The lessees of the ship asserted that 2,408 passenger tickets had been collected.

State's Attorney Maclay Hoyne, in pursuing his investigation, seized correspondence which had passed between officers of the Western Electric Employees' Organization, which gave the picnic, and the Indiana Transportation Comptny, operating the Eastland.

The State's attorney said this correspondence showed that the steamer company had advised that the more tickets sold the greater would be the rebate paid to the employees organization.

Passion for Another's Girl Wife Involevs Flight And Death.

Reading, Pa., July 27.—The arrest of three persons, an alleged murderer, a child wife and her husband, all in one boarding house here, early yesterday morning, rvealed to the police the story of a proposed elopement, a trip to Reading to talk over the plans and the alleged murder of a quarry foreman in Maryland by one of the men arrested.

Love for Mrs. Mary Maise, a pretty 15 year old Reading married woman was indirectly responsible for his murdering Louise Crescendio, a quarry boss, at a stone quarry, half way between Port Deposit and Perryville, Md., last Friday, according to the confession of Tony Marions, 36, made at police station a few minutes after his arrest at a local boarding house.

HORRORS OF THE CHINESE FLOODS

Many Thousands of Celestials Perish During Recent Inundation

TERRORS OF FAMINE

Many Towns Still Under Water—Efforts of American Admiral to Carry Relief to Sufferers.

Washington, D. C., July 27.—The loss of life in Canton, China, due to fire and flood, is estimated in tens of thousands according to a report from Admiral Winterhalter, commanding the Asiatic fleet. The gunboat Callao took 100 bags of rice to Shuyhing July 16, and rescued missionaries and 50 blind girls from the dikes of that town.

Admiral Winterhalter cabled from Shanghai the report received by him from the Wilmington, which was sent on relief work with the Callao.

"Conditions Canton, July 19, improving, water falling, business resumed and banks opened," the report says. estimated loss of life in Canton and vicinity, due to fire and flood, is tens of thousands.

"Missionaries, accompanied by armed party, left for Yintak to distribute rice. This party reports 100,000 destitute in the Tsinguon district, where they distributed 20,000 pounds of rice. Unable to reach Wantak the party reported that place submerged. Investigating party has been sent overland.

"In the vicinity of Sam-Shuy all town and a large area of the West River district flooded. There was great distress from lack of food. Crops have been entirely destroyed. A large shipment of food is expected at Canton. Among foreigners there is no distress.

"Additional naval vessels are not required. Only ships of very light draft could further assist. Volunteer launch tug under guard is used for distributing purposes. On July 23, a boat with rice left Canton under guard for Yantak and Sam-Shuy. Water still falling July 24.

"Unsuccessful attack was made on July 21 against the life of the Canton General and a number of the Government soldiers were killed."

Admiral Winterhalter said he would send the United States ship Abarenda to Canton if further aid could be rendered.

WANT U. S. TO PAY.

West Virginia Claims Federal Government Owel Large Sums to Both Virginians.

A request that the United States pay her debt of $13,000,000 to Virginia, as fixed by the United States Supreme Court in the recent decision will be made by West Virginia, through her representatives in Congress, at the next session. Representative H. H. Moss of Parkersburg, announced yesterday he would introduce a bill providing for this, and that Senator Chilton would present a similar bill in the upper house. "The Feedral government should pay the judgment," 'said Judge Moss. "The separation of West Virginia from Virginia was a war measure. It was necessary to help preserve the Union during the civil war. West Virginia or the western part of Virginia, controlling an east and west railroad, remained loyal to the Union, and being a border State was a potential factor in aiding the Northern soldiers Now, I think the Feedral government should assume the financial burden for the sacrifice which West Virginia has been forced to assume through its act of breaking away from Virginia and helping the Union cause."

ENGLAND SUSPECTS AMERICA.

Intimation That United States and Germany Might act for Freedom of Seas

London, July 27—In an editorial discussion the paragraph in the American note to Germany which invited the co-operation of the German government in securing the freedom of the seas the Manchester Guardinn says:

"This whole passage should be very carefully noted. It means quite plainly that in President Wilson's opinion this country is an offender against the principle of the freedom of the seas; we have, in fact, had several dispatches from President Wilson on this very subject, and unless it is believed surely will be followed by another.

"He declines to discuss alleged infractions of the freedom of the seas with Germany now, but he says in effect that the case might be different if Germany showed sincerity in her attachment to the principle of freedom at sea by abandoning her submarine campaign, which is the most serious infraction of that freedom ever known.

"Let Germany do that, and America and she may do something together for freedom on the seas. The whole passage may well occasion some very serious reflections in this country."

TROUBLE IN THE NINTH DISTRICT

Governor Stuart Ignores Independent Candidate's Statement

NEW TAX LAWS FIGURE

Friends of Executive Say Jordan Was Understood to Favor Segregation at one Time.

Richmond, July 27—More than ordinary interest attaches to the senatorial race in the Ninth District, composed of the counties of Augusta and Highland and the city of Staunton, where Professor C. T. Jordan has announced himself an independent candidate against Senator William H. Landes, who has been declared the Democratic nominee for the seat he now holds.

Jordan attacks the regularity of the action of the committee in declaring Landes, who had no opposition, the party nominee; indicates that he will make an issue of the new segregation system of taxation, supported by Landes at the extraordinary session and scores Governor Stuart for his support of the tax legislation, adopted "at the dictation of the Governor" at the extraordinary session of the General Assembly.

Governor Stuart will probably ignore the attack made upon him by Jordan in a signed statement printed in the Staunton papers Sunday. At the Capitol yesterday it was recalled by friends of the Governor that Professor Jordan was understood to favor segregation when in Richmond last winter. At that time he was an active candidate for appointment as State Hospital Commissioner, to succeed Joseph M. Bauserman, of Woodstock. Governor Stuart reappointed Bauserman.

For several years the Republican organization in Augusta and Staunton has been seeking to split the Democratic ranks by support of independent nominees, and former United States Marshal R. A. Fulwiler is understood to be one of Jordan's ardent supporters in the present fight. Jordan has been one of the prohibition leaders in the Valley, while Fulwiler has been aligned with the "wets". It was during the local option election in Staunton in 1913 that Fulwiler and Colonel S. Brown Allen, then postmaster, were on opposite sides of the liquor question, Allen taking the stump for the "drys". In his signed statement, Jordan does not mention the prohibition question.

The chairman of the Democratic county committee of Augusta and Highland and the city commitee of Saunton have issued statements declaring that Senator Landes is the regular party nominee, and that the primary lists were not closed until after the notice required by law had been given.

Senator Landes was elected last January to fiill the unexpired term of the late Senator Edward Echols. He is a former Mayor of Staunton and a prominent attorney.

SITE STILL UNCERTAIN

Special Committee Looking for Suitable Location for Proposed New Hospital.

The site of the new Alexandria Hospital, which has been a perplexing question to those interested in the new building, is once more unsettled, although plans and specifications have been prepared and accepted for the building to be erected on the north Columbus street site, and the board of trustees are prepared to receive bids for its construction. The Columbus street site was only selected after strenuous objection on the part of the lady board of managers and several members of the board of trustees who felt that it was not the proper location for the new hospital.

At a recent meeting of the committees it was stated that property adjoining the Columbus St. side would in all probability be used in the near future for industrial purposes, which would seriously effect the patients of the hospital in case the present plans were carried out to build the hospital there. For that reason a subcommittee of the building and site committee was appointed by Chairman Robert S. Jones. This committee is composed of Carroll Pierce, W. A. Smoot, Jr., and James R. Caton. They are now looking for a new location for the hospital building and are expected to report at an early date to the site and building committee who wil ask the board of trustees to reconsider the question.

Many persons interested in the new hospital favor the location of the institution in George Washington Park, and it is believed that the subcommittee will recommend this site. The City Council of Alexandria is now considering a proposition to take over the park from the Washington Monument Association, and in case this is done the hospital management will ask the city to give them a site for the new building. In addition to the park proper the city will secure a number of building lots from the monument association in case their proposition is accepted.

WOULD-BE EXCURSIONISTS.

Steamer St. Johns Disappoints Many by Not Stopping Here Yesterday Evening.

The members of the Phi Mu Sigma Fraternity, Alpha Chapter of the M. E. Church South, with many of their friends made arrangements early yesterday to take a moonlight ride on the steamer St. Johns, which makes runs down the Potomac Monday nights. About two hundred Alexandrians were on the Cameron street wharf about 7:30 o'clock anxiously awaiting the appearance of the steamer. The boat finally appeared, but she kept the middle of the channel and failed to blow for the landing. The greatest chagrin was apparent when the steamer passed the city without stopping. She was crowded to her fullest capacity, and it is said that about five hundred Washingtonians were kept from going aboard the boat after the number allowed by law had boarded her.

Since the terrible disaster to excursionists in Chicago last Saturday the officials are giving more attention to pleasure steamers in every section of the country.

OFFICE FATAL TO EDITORS.

The Springfield Republican says:

"More than any other profession newspaper work admits of no divided allegiance. The great mistake of Horace Greeley's life was made when he allowed himself to be persuaded to run for the presidency, and thereby an honorable career was brought to a sad anticlimax. Instances might be multiplied of officeholding editors whose influence has thereby been dissipated. The editorial office calls for judicial quality of the highest order, and no officeholder possesses that. He cannot be a distinterested commentator on men and things. It is necessary that the editor keep himself free from entangling alliances of all kinds. The newspaper men of the United States are slowly coming to this larger view of an environment which is quite as necessary to them as to our judges.

"The late Thurlow Weed, a prominent editor in his day, said that he did not know any newspaper man who had taken office who had not in that act gone wrong. That is the law and the gospel for real newspaper men."

The late Edgar Snowden, who from early manhood until he reached the advanced evening of life occupied the editorial chair of the Alexandria Gazette, realized the truth of the above. He had barely entered the portals of manhood when his father, Samuel Snowden, died, and he was compelled to renounce the practice of law and take his place at the head of the Gazette. Like most young men, he at first was allured by politics, and after filling several minor positions in his home city was elected Mayor, and Delegate to the Legislature. He soon, however, realized that the man who assumed the editorial chair should concentrate all his powers to that calling—in fact that he should be in love with it if he would succeed. After having filled his term as Delegate, he virtually renounced official life and for years devoted himself exclusively to his editorial duties. In the latter part of the fifties, however, he was enticed into the Congressional field. The district then known as the seventh was largely democratic, and William ("Extra Billy") Smith of Fauquier county, had for some time been our Congressman. But, like every other man who runs often, he had made enemies, and the democratic party of the district split and nominated two candidates. The Whigs saw an opportunity to elect their candidate on a plurality, and Edgar Snowden, one of the most prominent and popular men at that time in Virginia, was importuned to stand as their candidate. After considerable hesitation he consented, and one of the most active campaigns ever carried on in this Congressional district followed. Smith was fighting for his political life and he won, but by a nose.

Mr. Snowden subsequently became more steeled than ever against allowing his name to be used in future as a candidate for any place in the gift of the people. In 1869, when the state was about to re-enter the union, he was suggested as one of the United States Senators from the Old Dominion. Had he become interested he might have been elected by the Legislature. He was inflexible, however, and the bee buzzed in vain.

The late Douglas Wallach, for many years owner and publisher of the Washington Star, sold that paper to a company about this time. He had made a fortune out of the paper, and having purchased a farm in Culpeper, announced himself a candidate for Congress from this district. He made a canvass, after which he retired and endorsed the regular democratic nominee.

MENACE TO TRADE UNIONS.

The readjustment of the world after this terrible European war shall have ended is causing many to attempt to cross bridges before reaching them. It is a problem, however, which must be considered, and preparations should be made for it. Troublous times are ahead, and the people of this country are sure to find perplexing issues to solve. A general exodus to the United States of people from the warring countries is as sure to follow as the rising and setting of the sun. Many reasons will be assigned for this. People of European nations will be thoroughly tired of war, and they will naturally seek a clime where the rattle of sabres and sound of drums are not heard. But the great incentive will be to emigrate to a country where they can obtain more satisfactory pay for their labor. This will of course, bring on friction with our labor unions, and the latter should take heed now and be ready to meet this coming issue. The Richmond Times-Dispatch says:

"When it is over—yes, we mean this worst of all wars— there is going to be a rush to this country. Not only so, but the nations recently at war will fight again for the trade they have lost. The contest will be in industrial and commercial lines alike. America, with its continued prosperity, will be the target of attack.

"It is vital and most essential that those who are now engaged here in industrial pursuits should understand this. That they may be prepared to take the advantages that are coming, they should use the utmost caution at this time in allying themselves in the most remote way with the element which is now seeking to dominate or cripple any industry in the United States.

"We mean, exactly, the disturbing element which is endeavoring to unlawfully foment strikes. This element, if successful, will be the first to strike at every business in the land.

"It is hardly necessary, in view of their intelligence, to explain to American industrial workers that if the element mentioned is permitted to get a foothold here, their interests and personal welfare will be the first to be attacked.

"The plan of prevention, is simple—let all classes and lines of business in this country stand together for law and order, and prosperity will take care of itself. It has been well said that alien domination of American trade unions means ruin to the whole country."

ANOTHER JEAN VALJEAN.

In the early stages of the career of Jean Valjean, the heo of Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables," he is represented as sitting on the side of a country road. A small boy comes along juggling a piece of money. Failing to catch the coin after revolving it in the air, it falls near Jean Valjean, who immediately places his foot upon it. The boy's eye had followed the piece, and he ran up and asked for the coin. The former convict repulsed him rudely, and the youngster, taking fright, supposing the man might murder him, ran for his life and entered a nearby village. This incident proved to be the turning point in the life of Jean Valjean. His conscience had not troubled him when he carried off the good bishop's silver condlesticks in payment for the prelate's hospitality at a time when he was excluded from several taverns and had to find shelter from the inclement weather, but an arrow of conviction shot through his soul when he realized that he had robbed a little boy of a five-franc piece. Arising quickly, he ran to the village for the purpose of finding the boy and delivering up the coin. Although he sought him delingently, he failed to locate him. Jean Valjean carried the piece for years in hopes of meeting the child and restoring the money.

Truth is often as strange as fiction. A Quitman (Ga.) dispatch to the Atlanta Journal says:

W. B. Gornto, of Barney, returned from the Confederate reunion at Richmond bitterly disappointed because he could not find the woman he stole a pie from fifty years ago, when he was with the Confederate army in that city. He carries a deep scar on his hand as a memento to the lady's resentment over the loss of the pie.

After an all night march the troops of which Gornto was one were being hurried through Richmond without time for breakfast. This woman had pies displayed on a window ledge, and Gornto grabbed one. The woman made a swipe at him with a butcher knife and cut his hand, but he held on to the pie.

NEWS OF THE DAY

It is said that the United States army has a high explosive which would surprise even the Germans in the event of war.

The city of Antwerp was fined 250,000 francs ($50,000) for popular demonstrations held there on the Belgian fete day.

Official announcement was made yesterday in Berlin that the military establishment has already acquired enough woolen goods to equip the entire army for the next winter campaign.

There was a sharp revival yesterday of the report that President Wilson intends to summon Congress in extraordinary session to deal comprehensively with the subject of the national defense.

The new French destroyer Le Bisson has demolished the Austrian submarine and aeroplane depot on Lagosta Island (the southernmost of the Dalmatian group in the Adriatic Sea), with the loss to the French of only one man killed.

Two trains on the railway between Mexico City and Vera Cruz have been blown up by dynamite and more than 200 persons killed. Bandits are boldy attacking trains near Vera Cruz. The station at Cameron, near Soledad, was burned after the rebels had killed 56 persons.

Mrs. George Washington Childs Drexel, of Philadelphia, was pushed over a cliff at North Isleboro on her summer estate in Maine, on Saturday, and narrowly escaped death. The attempt to murder her was made by a tall, dark man, wearing a slouch hat, whom she thinks is an Italian.

Thirteen persons were injured, one probably fatally, in Toledo, Ohio, when a miniature cyclone struck a carnival tent in that city. More than 1,000 men, women and children were buried under electric wires and poles and canvas. In the confusion a score of snakes escaped, adding terror to the scrambling people.

The execution of Charles Becker was postponed last night by Thomas Mott Osborne, warden of Sing Sing, until Friday morning. The postponement was granted at the request of Supreme Court Justice John Ford, who yesterday heard argument upon Becker's plea for a third trial. Becker was scheduled to die in the electric hair at 5:54 tomorrow morning.

The Norwegian steamship Fimreite, of 3,819 tons gross, was sunk yesterday by a German submarine. The crew was landed at Stornoway, Scotland. The British steamship Grangewood, of 3,422 tons gross, bound from Archangel, Russia, for Havre, France, has been torpedoed and sunk in the North Sea by a German submarine. The crew landed at Lerwick, Scotland.

The three ringleaders in the conspiracy which resulted in the bomb outrage at the Casino at Sofia, Bulgaria, on February 14 last were publicly hanged yesterday. A bomb was thrown into the Sofia Casino at 11 o'clock on the morning of February 14 while a gala performance was in progress. Ten persons were wounded, including a daughter of the Minister of War. A son of General Voyjieff was killed and several of the wounded died later.

Developments in the strike situation at Bayonne, N. J., indicate that probably half of the approximate 5,000 employes of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey will return to work today or tomorrow. In response to an appeal by Sheriff Eugene Kinkead, at a mass meeting last night, the English-speaking men and American citizens among the employes agreed to return to work. It is estimated that 1,500 men signified their intention of returning to work, and that probably half of the employes speak English, or are American citizens.

Miss Minnie Knox, 32 years old, is at the Sibley Hospital, Washington, in a critical condition as a result of being run down by a car of the Washington Railway and Electric Company, at North Capitol and H streets northwest, last midnight. Both of her feet are badly crushed and she is internally inujred. The hospital physicians fear she cannot recover. In all probability both feet will have to be amputated. Miss Knox is a bookbinder employed, it is said, at the government printing office. The police say that when the young woman was run down her escort disappeared and his identity was not learned.

Two hundred and sixty of the 400 employes of the Nitrated Products Company at Pottsville, Pa., voted last night to go on strike for an increase in wages from 37 1-2 to 75 cents an hour. Pickets were placed around the plant. A squad of State police were on duty at the plant last night, but no disorder was reported. Announcement was made last week that the company had closed an order with agents of the allies for guncotton and other explosives amounting to $5,000,000, and that the capacity of the plant would be doubled. The plant has been working night and day since its erection several months ago.

Capt. Harry Pederson, of the steamer Eastland, has made this statement to State Attorney Hoyne: "The officials of the company were very anxious to get the privilege of carrying 2,500 instead of 2,000 passengers, as they were licensed to do a year ago. So I was told by one of the officers to go to Robert Reid, the Federal inspector at Grand Haven, and apply for this privilege. I was told that it was all fixed up for Reid to give me this privilege, and I guess it was, for he had no hesitancy in giving it. It was soon after this was granted that Reid's son in law, J. M. Erricson, was made chief engineer of the Eastland. It was Erricson who was in charge Saturday when the ballast tanks were not filled and the boat turned over."

VIRGINIA NEWS

Miss Margaret Duggan, of Roanoke, was notified yesterday that her only brother, Charles Duggan, about 30 years old, was lost in the Eastland disaster at Chicago. Young Duggan was a son of the late Owen Duggan.

John Mann, Jr., one of the Fire Commissioners of Richmond, and a former Baltimorean, is in a dying condition at his home in the Virginia city as a result of an automobile accident in which he was injured on the night of July 6.

Governor Harris of Georgia, said yesterday he would act this week—probably Thursday—on the application for pardon of Edgar Stripling, the former Chief of oPlice of Danville, serving a life sentence in the Georgia penitentiary for the murder of William Cornett fourteen years ago.

B. G. Barnes fell from a third-story window of the National Hotel in Harrisonburg Sunday night landing on the stone pavement 30 feet below and escaped with minor injuries. Twelve feet from the ground a window awning, some telegraph wires and the edge of a projecting porch served to break the force of the fall and saved the man's life.

A correspondent of the Baltimore Sun says Hopewell's big boom is a lure for gamblers an dthat hold up men and scarlet women join in the scramble for war order money. The correspondent also alleges that lawlessness is rampant there. Without a corporate government, and with only six policemen, the mushroom community of 35,000 people is like a western mining town at its worst.

Representative C. C. Carlin received twelve automobile loads of suffragists today at his office in the House office building, to ask his support of the Bristow-Mondell suffrage resolution. Mrs. Henry Lockwood, of Clarendon, chairman of the Congressional Union organization, headed the delegation. All of the members are residents of Congressman Carlin's district. The march on the office began at Clarendon this morning, when the automobiles, decorated with the suffrage colors, assembled for an early start.

Roland Mills is dead and Moses Irving is in a critical conditon with a bullet wound in his abdomen as the result of a duel fought by the two men alone in the woods near Bedford City yesterday morning. The two men, one dead and the other apparently dying, were found about 6 o'clock yesterday morning by Miss Georgia Lee, a trained nurse, of Roanoke. Miss Lee was taking a walk in the suburbs, about a mile out of town, when she heard several shots in succession. She hastened in the direction of the reports and came upon Roland Mills lying on the ground with a ghastly wound in his head above the left eye. In lifting him to ascertain his condition the blood from the wound spurted over the young woman's clothing. Mills' death had evidently been instantaneous. Moses Irving, who has only one arm, lay nearby. He is believed to have a slight chance of recovery, though he has not regained consciousness.

ENGLAND'S DEFENSE

Contends Her Acts Are Consistent With International Law

Washington, July 27—Defending her practices in the attempt to stop all trade with Germany, the British government, in a note to the United States received yesterday, contends:

That her acts are consistent with the principles of international law, for which the United States is contending; that these principles have been merely given a new application to suit changed conditions on the seas and the geographical situation respecting Germany;

That precedent for the acts under the orders in council to which the United States has taken exception is found in the record of the United States government during the civil war, and sustained by decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States, which decisions were accepted by Great Britain;

That if American citizens feel the have been deprived of their rights in the British government's interferences with trade they have first the prize courts in which to present their cases, and, should the prize court rulings be unsatisfactory, they have the British privy council, or supreme court, and, finally, the diplomatic support of the United States government with which arbitration of such claims might be arranged as in previous instances and particularly in accord with existing arbitration treaties between the two governments.

The British note is in reply to the American note of March 30 in which the attitude of the United States toward certain acts supposedly contemplated under the then recently issued orders in council was fully set forth. It is understood it was prepared by the British government many weeks ago, but has been held in the foreign office pending the coming of a favorable moment for its presentation. The impression prevailed here yesterday that the British authorities felt that now that the United Staes has presened what is generally regarded as its last word to Germany on the submarine issue, it would be an opportune moment for presenting a defense of British policies.

DISCUSS AMERICAN NOTE

Question of Indemnification for American Lives Lost May be Suggested.

Berlin July 27—The imperial chancellor Dr. von Bethmann-Hollwweg, yesterday conferred with the emperor at general headquarters. While the audience concerned other questions, the American note was also under discussion.

Nothing tangible regarding the German attitude on the American communication is likely to be made known before the chancellor's return to Berlin.

No discussions of the note have taken place at the foreign office and the question whether any reply whatever to the American communication will be made seems in the meantime to be quite unsettled. Some officials are inclined to believe that the American note closes the diplomatic discussions most thoroughly.

Others think that a reply of some sort will be made by Germany, and that the question of indemnification for the American lives lost will perhaps be suggested for reference to arbitration. This suggestion was under consideration during the drafting of the earlier notes, but if decided upon will almost certainly not be put into operation immediately.

One factor in this determination is the desire to await the outcome of the negotiation with England regarding intereference with American trade. The outcome of this dispute, it is believed, is not likely to affect the general German policy regarding submarines, but the tone of the American note to Great Britain will be taken as a guide in interpreting the latest note to Germany.

Officials believe this is decidedly brusque and most calculated to aid in the settlement of the German-American difficulties.

To City Tax Payers— NOTICE.

Collecor's Office, July 26, 1915.

NOTICE is hereby given that the tax bills for 1915 are now in the hands of the collector. The attention of all parties interested is respectively called to the action of the City Council directing me to allow a discount of five per cent upon all bills for the year 1915 paid in full on or before August 10th, 1915, and also directing me to file with the City Auditor a list of all persons to whom the five per cent is allowed not later than August 16, 1915.

Tax payers are requested to call and pay at once in order to avoid the rush and crowd usually present on the last days in which the discount is allowed. Bring a list to make sure you get bills for all your property as the collector will not be responsible or allow the discount after the time fixed by law.

P. F. GORMAN,
Collector of City Taxes.

ANOTHER STRIKE LIKELY

Agitators Not Allowed to Return to Work

Bridgeport, Conn., July 27.—Unless the labor situation at the Remington Arms and Ammunition Company's plant is adjusted by tomorrow afternoon another strike will be called according to a statement here last night by J. J. Keppler, international vice president of the machinists' union.

It had been expected that all of the strikers would be back to work yesterday after the announcement of last week of the labor leaders that an agreement had been reached with the company for a weekly working schedule of 48 hours with no decrease in wages, but complications arose when returning strikers were refused employment.

Manufacturers say only about half a dozen "agitators" were turned away but members of the machinists union assert the number reached 150. When the ironworkers learned of the turn of affairs they again walked out. A few of them, however, returned to work during the afternoon, and the remainder, it was said, would go back today pending a further atempt at a settlement.

RUSSIANS FIGHT GAS.

Burn Oil-Soaked Moss And Drive Poison Vapors up.

London, July 27.—The Russians have developed a simple but effective method of meeting German attacks with poisonous gases, according to the Post's Petrograd correspondent. The Russians dig a shallow gutter some distance in front of their position, filling it with moss.

As soon as the scouts report that a gas attack is being prepared the Russians pour a considerable quantity of petroleum into this gutter. The oil drenches the moss and soaks into the soil. When the gas cloud begins to appear the moss is set on fire and flames rise quickly, even the soil burning fiercely until the petroleum is exhausted.

The effect is to change entirely the air currents for some distance, carrying the gas cloud above the troops.
